

Mythbusting Retirement Living

The facts about Retirement Living at Parkland

At Parkland we are here to help you make an informed decision on where you want to live. Here are the misconceptions we hear most often.

MYTH 1: Retirement Living is too expensive.

Retirement Living costs less than you think! No more grocery shopping, food preparation, outdoor maintenance costs, property taxes, membership fees, or rising utility bills. At Parkland, one easy bill takes care of all the little extras, so you can focus on the things you enjoy most.

MYTH 2: You can't come and go as you like.

How, when and where you spend your time is completely up to you. At Parkland, you are welcome to come and go as you like.

MYTH 3: Retirement Living is like a nursing home.

Retirement Living offers independent accommodations with additional services and support available. Unlike the full-time assistance provided in a nursing home, retirement living offers additional services and care only should you need it.

MYTH 4: You can no longer drive.

Many Parkland residents continue to use their vehicles. However, if you would prefer not to drive, Parkland includes shuttle services in many monthly rent packages.

MYTH 5: You have to give up your pet.

All Parkland communities are pet friendly! Speak to a Lifestyle Consultant for more information on our pet policy.

MYTH 6: Your apartment is small.

Parkland offers a range of apartment options from studio to two-bedroom plus den. Speak with the Lifestyle Consultant at the campus nearest you for suite options, square footage and availability.

MYTH 7: Food options are limited.

Parkland prides itself on an exceptional dining experience. Not only will you have plenty of options, but menu choices are tailored to residents' dietary concerns and preferences.

MYTH 8: You lose your independence.

The lifestyle options, services and activities at Parkland have been designed to promote independence. Having additional services and supports in place provides you with the confidence to try new things and do more of what you love.
